Dublin to Host First-Ever Tech Week 23 – 30 May 2025

A Celebration of Innovation, Community, and Global Collaboration across Dublin.

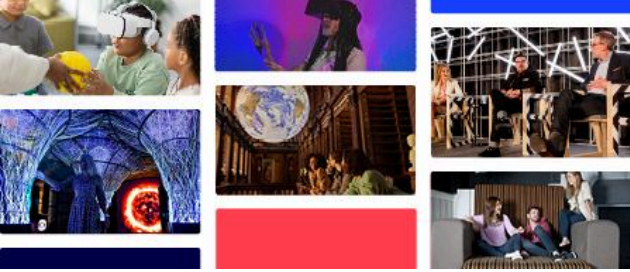

Dublin Tech Week is a community-driven initiative that celebrates innovation and technology. Bringing together Dublin's tech community, educators, creatives, and the public, it offers a vibrant programme of events designed to inspire collaboration and showcase Dublin as a global tech hub.

Dublin Tech Week 2025 aims to leave a lasting legacy by building connections across the tech sector, encouraging STEM engagement within the wider community, and positioning Dublin as a compelling destination for the international tech community.

By encouraging innovation and cultivating a thriving ecosystem, Dublin Tech Week seeks to become a cornerstone event on both the city's and the global tech calendar. It will spotlight where tech intersects with daily life, be it work, culture, entertainment, or city living. This initiative supports Dublin's ongoing development as a dynamic hub for technology and entrepreneurship, promotes sustainable growth, attracts global talent, and strengthens the sector's long-term resilience and economic impact.

"Dublin is one of Europe's most important tech hubs and a leading smart city and the European Capital of Smart Tourism 2024. Dublin City Council and the Dublin Brand are proud to support the City's first ever Tech Week showcasing our world-class talent, cutting-edge innovation, and collaborative spirit. Initiatives like this not only highlight our position as a leader in the tech industry but also inspire future innovation, and strengthen our city's reputation as a forward-thinking, welcoming and thriving destination for local and global business."

— Ross Curley. Head of Economic Development, Dublin City Council & Dublin Regional Place Brand
